Hi Joy,
great to see you last week. I have a favor to ask. Since some questions have been raised about the justification for Gunnison sage grouse being a valid species, Chris Nolin suggested we have an expert within the Service look at the scientific data to see if we think it supports the conclusions. So, could we get some of Steve Chambers' time to review the attached papers and give us his impressions about the methodology used and the validity of the conclusions? I owe you one.
