

GUNNISON COUNTRY TIMES

VOL. 126 No. 52

A trip back through archives sparks memory

Year in Review - Part I

Toni M. Todd

calls from senior stream, thus protect-se homeowners from being out off in dry years.
The Gunnison Planning Commission engaged in what had become an ongoing discussion over tation

Ameri-
to lure
r back
served hout a
a few ct with ican is nnison

Comduked
of

Grouse!

regulations that both promote and some cases mandate affordable

THE KEY SOLUTION
in on maintenance high rate of custodian tu.
was identified as a key compone.
of the problem.

Local sage grouse observers were given further indication that the jittery bird is on a likely path to be listed as a federally protected species by the fall of 2006. In a session with the Gunnison Sage Grouse Working Group, Western Colorado Supervisor for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Al Pfister intimated that signs were pointing toward a Gunnison Sage Grouse listing under the Endangered Species Act.

The Western State College S teams were saved when supers announced the comp a successful campaign fund the program